How Multi Pass tiers work

At most parks, Multi Pass rides are split into two groups. You may pick only one of your three from the top (headliner) group — the other two come from the larger group. Animal Kingdom has no tiers: pick any 3.

Magic Kingdom, for example: your one headliner pick comes from a short list (Big Thunder, Space Mountain, Tiana's, Peter Pan's Flight, Jungle Cruise). Your other two come from the longer list (Haunted Mansion, Pirates, Buzz, Winnie the Pooh, and more).

How to actually use it

Book early. On-site hotel guests: 7 days before check-in, for the whole stay. Off-site: 3 days out. Opens 7:00 AM ET — in the My Disney Experience app only.

It rolls. You hold up to 3 at once. The moment you tap into one ride, a slot frees up and you can book your next — then the next. A full day can be far more than 3 rides.

The "burner" trick. Early on, all 3 of your windows might be for the afternoon — so you're stuck until the first arrives. Fix: make one pick a low-demand ride with an early window. Tap into that "burner" first thing to start the rolling engine hours sooner.

Example. Your three picks all return after 1:00 PM. Add a low-wait ride with a 9:00 AM window as one of the three. Tap in at 9:15 — and you can immediately book your next Lightning Lane, instead of waiting until 1:00.

Good to know. Each pick is a 1-hour window. You can change a ride or time before its window opens. If a ride breaks during your window, it converts to a Multi Experience Pass good on many other rides. Everyone riding needs their own pass.

Lightning Lane is the hardest part of a Disney day. Starlit Magic makes the call for you.

Today's Plan builds your ride order around what you booked — live, all day. One app.
